

Delighted @ D Block Durgotsob

From the crowd sourcing city of Coy
Far from the colloquial city of joy
Oh! My Mother,
You have brought us a ceremony of blessing and enjoy

Durga Pujo, the second largest festival in the world, also known as “Durgotsob” is a memorial of blissful blessing and choir of unlimited rituals. The true essence and enchanting elements of Durgotsob are unavoidable parts of Bengali Race. The Durgotsob organized by C R Park, D Block, New Delhi has been a symbol of rich customs and beetles of a Prabasi Bengali’s lifeline. Walking around the D Block ground during the Durgotsob seems like living a holy Calcutta life in classic times.

The theme and decorum of the Durgotsob here are sharp identities of diverse Bengali Culture and tradition.

While finding the cunning references of the Durgotsob here at D Block, C R Park, the vibrant elements has been searched and therefore jotted down as a collection of philanthropic poems and photographs.
